Caring for our planet is one of the most important life issues. Sadly, nature suffers from many troubles. The number one problem is air pollution. Many polluting vehicles and factories emit carbon dioxide. Besides, deforestation is increasing more and more. However, there are possible solutions to save our planet earth. First of all, we should increase the use of renewable energy such as solar energy and wind power. We need also to plant more trees and fight deforestation. Finally, it is so essential to reduce the use of vehicles. Using public transportation does have many benefits.
